The United States agt. a Distillery at Nos. 229, 228, and 300 Heart st., and Ten Barrels of Distilled Spirits, and other Property found there. Bernard Friedman, claument.

This was an action to condemn the distillery property of the claimant, situated on the premises abandoned, for frauds in the revenue. The property involved is estimated as worth from $22,000 to $25,000.

The law requires that every distiller shall, before commencing business, give notice to the assessor of the business he intends to do, the persons by whom, and the place at which it is to be conducted, and of the kind and capacity of all the implements, tools, and utensils which are to be used in the conduct of the business. He is also required to keep an accurate account in a book of the quantity of grain or other materials used, the number of gallons of spirits distilled, the number of gallons placed in warehouse, and the number soid, and to whom, and also to make tri-monthly returns to the assessor and collector of the same facts. The giving of a notice which is either false or frandulent in any of the above particulars renders all the distillery property liable to forfeiture.

The case was opened on the part of the Government on Friday last, by Beni K. Phelps, U. S. Assistant District-Attorney, who claimed a forfeiture for violation of the law in the notice in the book and in the returns; and also under the 4sth section of the law, which provides that if any articles subject to tax, or raw materials for the manufacture of any such articles, shall be found in the possession of any person intending to manufacture or dispose of the same in fraud of the law, or to avoid the payment of taxes thereon, then not only such articles and raw materials, but all other personal property whatsoever found upon the same premises, shall be found in the nowther last by one Springwater, who made a nominal sale of it in the month of December to Bernard Friedman, the chaimant. It appeared, however, that Springwater and a man by the name of Eickelheimer had bee an, the claimant. It appeared, however, that Spring ater and a man by the name of Eickelheimer had beer sily at the place, and evinced quite as much interest in as Friedman.

that Friedman.

Friedman gave the notice required by law in December, in which he specified the capacity of the still as 300 gallons in the 24 hours, and declared that there were no boilers, as the steam power was rented. In April he gave a new notice, which specified substantially the same things as the notice of December, differing, however, in some trivial details. The evidence was undisputed that the still would produce upward of 2,000 gallons in the 24 hours, and the seizing officers found on the premises a large engine with two capacious boilers, which supplied the power for the whole machinery. The claimant attempted to explain this discrepancy by testifying that he bought the still for a 300-gallon still, and had never tested it, and that he did not purchase the engine and hollers when he bought the other things of Springwater. Upon the subject of returns, the officers who made the seizare testified that they found at least 145 bushels of grain in the mash at that time, (on the 26th of April) while the books showed but 531 bushels since the 6th of April, part of which had been distilled and the product, viz., ten barrels of whisky was found in the bonded warehouse.

April, part of which had been distined and the product, viz., ten barrels of whisky was found in the bonded warehouse.

The claimant alleged that the 331 bushels was all that had ever been mashed, and that the eight mash tubs found full by the seizing officers were partly filled with swill, which had been pumped back from the still after distillation, because of a break in the sewer.

Some six or seven witnesses were examined on the part of the Government, and about a dozen for the chaimants. The case was summed up on Tuesday afternoon by D. C. Birdsail for the chaimants, and for the United States, by Samuel G. Courtney, United States District-Alterney, who claimed that the evidence warranted a forfeiture under the sections claimed by the Government.

Judge Blaichford charged the jury on Wednesday morning, instructing them that if there was any unitrue statement in the notice to the Assessor, they must fluid a verdict for the Government, under the 2st hand 25th sections of the act of March, 1867; that if there was any misstatement in the distillery books, or the trimonthly returns, they must fluid a verdict for the Government, under the sist section of the same act, and that if they found that the spirits and raw materials there were in the possession of any one intending to manufacture or sell them in fraud of the law, or to avoid payment of taxes, then they must find for the Government, under the 48th section of the law, and he directed them to find a special verdict, naming the section, if any, under which they condemned the property.

The pury retired at about 11 o'clock, and after an absence of nearly an hour, returned with a verdict of condemnation under the 24th section, for giving a fulse and fraudulent notice to the Assessor of the kindand capacity of stills, and other implements, &c., to be used on the premises.

CIRCUIT—Before Mr. Justice PECKHAM.

THE DUTIES AND LIABILITIES OF RAILROAD CONDUCTORS—THE RIGHTS OF PASSENGERS.

Matthew A. Croker, Administrator, agt. the Long Island Railroad Co.
This is one of the many suits growing out of the collision on the Long Island Railroad in August, 1865, in which several lives were lost. Among those who were killed was a son of the plaintiff, who was standing on the platform of one of the cars. His father, as his personal representative and administrator, brings suit for $5,000 en seats. The defense was the same, viz: that the statute debars the person injured from recovery if he received it while standing on the platform, unless there was not sufficient accommodation within the car, and that the deceased accommodation within the car, and that the deceased could have found a seat. The Court charged substantially that the defendants

Could have found a seat.

The Court charged substantially that the defendants admitted negligence on their part, as the conductor of their train went on, contrary to rule, before the up train passed, and thus caused the accident; that the conductor being in their employment, the Company was responsible. They must see, at their peril, that the men they employ are proper and careful men.

As to the other question—that of contributing negligence of the decessed—if there was room for him inside the cars, and a seat which proper, diligent care would have secured to him, then the defendants were not liable. It is not enough for them to prove that there was a seat in the last of the nine cars. If he was able, by the ordinary and proper care which passengers exert and should exert, to find one, he was bound to take it. Ordinarily, it is the duty of a conductor to find seats for the passengers, and if in the front cars the seats were all occupied, and there are seats in the rear cars, it is his duty to snform passengers of the fact. Still, if the passenger could by the exercise of ordinary diligence find it, it was his duty to do so.

It was not the deceased's indispensable duty to stand inside was transparent and obvious to all, then it might be negligence, but the jury would perceive the difficulties that naturally arise from such a proceeding. In the joiting of the cars on the inside he would be tossed from the passenger on one side to the verdict that was from the passenger on one side to the passenger on the other.

With regard to the amount of the verdict that was inmited by the statute to such an amount, not exceeding $5,000, as the jury shall deem a fair and just compensation thaving reference to the pocuniary damages resulting to the next of kin. In this case, the young man having neither children or wife, the father is the next of kin. It is not, of course, in his power to prove the exact amount of his damages in dollars and cents, but he has given you this damages in dollars and cents, but he has given you the elements on which you are to estimate those damages, the position, age, and occupation of his son. He is not entitled to recover for his grief or suffering, or for the loss in his feelings and affections. Nor are you to give vindictive damages. This is not the mode of punishing their negligence. But you may look to what advantage and help he might reasonably be expected to give his father in future.

The jury-rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $3,500. Mr. North for plaintiff; Mr. Vanderpoel for defendant. CHAMBERS.—JUNE 12.—Before Justice INGRAHAM.

To this charge the defondant demurred that the wife, not being a resident of the State, could not sue under the statute of divorces. The case came up on a motion for judgment for the frivolousness of the demurrer. It was argued that the wife's residence is, according to the common law rule, the residence of her husband. In re ise opening of Churchest.

The argument of the appeal from the taxation of costs in this matter came up in the Chumbers. Mr. Anderson, on behalf of the objectors, claimed that several of the items were improper; that the charges of the Commissioners were limited by statute to $4 per meeting; that the Corporation Council having been made the legal adviser in street openings, all charges for attorneys fees or costs were illegal; that the charge of $25,000 for drawing and copying the report was excessive, especially in view of the fact that a great part of these reports were blanks.

costs were illegal; that the charge of $28,000 for drawing and copying the report was excessive, especially in view of the fact that a great part of these reports were blanks, which were charged for as a separate item.

Mr. Fullerten, on behalf of the Commissioners, argued in reply that the costs and counsel fee were proper disbursements, the very fitness of the Commissioners for their place arguing that they required a legal assistance, and that the charge for drafting, 25c, per folio, was a very moderate compensation for a capable lawyer, and the charge for copying quite moderate, in view of the high price of living. SUIT AGAINST A RAILROAD COMPANY TO RECOVER $10,000.

Robert Millbank agt. The Second ave. Railroad Company.

This was an action to recover $10,000 by plaintiff from defendants for personal injuries sustained by the alleged negligence of defendants.

It appears that on the 6th of July, 1865, plaintiff, who is a broker, was riding in a wagon drawn by a span of horses on the Second-ave., going north. In the same wagon was a friend of plaintiff's, Mr. Cockein, the secretary of a Petroleum Company. The wagon came in collision with a cart, and some difficulty ensued between the driver of the cart and plaintiff; plaintiff leaving his wagon to remonstrate with the driver of the cart. Mr. Cockein also got out and stood on the sidewalk. It seems quite an altercation ensued between plaintiff and the cart-driver, and the driver testified that plaintiff cursed him and attempted to beat him. Plaintiff then went back to his wagon and had just got into it—Mr. Cockein remaining on the sidewalk—when the horses started, frightened at something, and ran away, plaintiff being thrown out and injured, as claimed by him, badly, and the wagon being broken to pieces. Plaintiff alleged that the cause of the accident was the injudicious blowing of the whistle of a dummy engine of defendant's, which frightened the horses.

The answer denied all the allegations of the plaintiff, and defendant claimed that the accident was the direct result of plaintiff is negligence; that the collision was caused by the wrongfal act of plaintiff in not guiding his horses to the right. That he was cuipably negligent in leaving his team standing alone to pursue the driver, and that the horses were startled by him while refinering the wagon, and not by the whistle, which they claim was not blown at the time the horses started; in short, that the accident was the necessary sequence of the unwarranted acts and negligence of plaintiff.

The first point in the case was us to the immediate cause of th

SUPPLEME COURT—GENERAL TERM—HD DISTRICT.—
Before Justices LOTT, BARNARD, and GILLGERT.
THE TICKET QUESTION—A RAILROAD MAY LIMIT THE USE OF ITS TICKETS TO A SINGLE DAY.
James H. Elmor agt Lewis C. Sands.
The plaintiff, on the Eld of November, 1865, claimed the privilege of passing over the Long Island Railroad, from Jamaica to Hunter's Point, on the production to the conductor of a ticket dated on the 16th of that month, and marked or stamped "good this date only." The conductor refused to permit him to pass, and demanded payment of the usual fare, which the plaintiff declined to pay, and thereupon he was put off the car by the defendant.

The plaintiff admitted that he "purchased the ticket two or three days before the occurence" and it was doubtless bought on the day of its date, and although the date was illegible at the time of the trial, it is shown by the testimony of the conductor and another witness that it was legible on the day it was offered, and the plaintiff at the time was informed by the conductor that the rules of the Company, and his histractions would not permit him to take any ticket after its date. It was not claimed on the trial that the tirket produced was not dated, nor that it was illegible, and the testimony fully warrants the conclusion that the plaintiff was aware, before he was removed from the car, that the ticket bore date on a day previous to that on which he claimed the benefit of it, and that the words "good this date only" were marked or stamped thereon as above stated, and that with a knowledge of these facts he insisted on the right to pass over the road without the payment of the fare demanded.

The only question then to be decided is whether he had that right.

It is conceded that common carriers have a right to ties. That gave the plaintiff the right of passage over the road, not at any time it might suit his convenience, or whenever he might choose to exercise the privilege, but on the day of its date only. We are unable to discover anything unreasonable in that restriction. A proper regard to the accommodation of passengers with the necessary cars, and to the protection of the company in reference to the moneys received by their agents, and many other considerations that might be suggested, seem on the other hand to dietate its propriety. These views are sustained by the decision of the Court in Barker agt. Coffin, 31 Barbour, Supreme Court Reports, p. 556, and the cases there cited lead us to the conclusion that the Judge at the Circuit properly directed the jury to find a verdict for defendant. Judgment must therefore be entered fon that verdict in favor of the defendant, with costs.

The San Francisco Market Review, of May 18, says:

There is decided ease in all monetary circles. Coin is accumulating in all the reservoirs, and our banks and banking institutions find it difficult to piace all their surplus funds at satisfactory rates. Loans upon call are made on the street at one per cent per month, though we continue to quote bank rate at 1s11 per cent. Bullion and treasure continue to flow freely from the interior. The receipts thus far during May have approximated $2,250,000, being up to the full average of the past. The Times gives the following statement relative to recent Government sales of gold-bearing bonds:

It is no secret that engagements were entered into for June delivery of the bends before the order came by telegraph, on the 4th inst., to stop further sales. These engagements were made pursuant to standing orders from Washington. They were made with no "Ring"—with no particular brokers dealing in the public funds, but to all alike, as they applied, near the closing of the May accounts of the Department, when it was not convenient or desirable to add to the deliveries of that month. And all applicants were so informed, with the promise that they would be served to the extent of their wants on the incoming of June. On Saturday, the 1st, and Monday, the 3d, and on Tuesday, the 4th inst., up to the hour of the recipit of the Secretary's felegrain to the purport that he found his currency balances much larger than anticipated, and he desired to make no further sales of bonds, these engagements were recognized, as it was necessary, in good faith, they should be, and the names of the brokers and the amounts which they had bought, respectively—and not as "Ring" or combination, or by preconcent—forwarded to the Department at once. The takers of the bonds for June delivery were not only unknown to each other, but some of them were rivals in business, and who would have been the first to proclaim an act of favoritism had the Assistant Treasurer entertained, much less personally profited by, such a purpose.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Wednesday, June 12.—Receipts of cattle since Monday are 2.830 head, viz. 205 at Hudson City, and 1.334 at Communipaw, not including 63 at the former place in transit to New-Haven. The 234 received Sanday, but not sold until yesterday, are included. Trade has been quite lively, and very few cattle remain unsold. Prices scarcely vary from this day week, or from the rates of last Monday, only a quicker market enables the sellers to get full stronger weights. With few exceptions, prices range from 165c, to 18c., dropping to 143815c. for a small lot of dry cows, stags, and bulls, and mounting up to 185c, and even 19c. for a very few of as fine cattle as the first-class butchers have seen for months. Some of this class were on sale at Hudson City; 80 as ripe and fat Kentucky grade Durhams as one wenid wish to see, sold by Coney & McPherson at 183019c., on 85 cwt.; the tails at 18c., to dress 60th per cwt., while the tops were to be killed and weighed at 19c. Another good drove was the 125 Kentucky cattle, owned by Beach & Co., 8 cwt., sold at 17c. 17c. Then, a fair lot of 65 cwt., steers, sold for 17c; 136 Texans, still-fed, 6 cwt., at 16c.

There was a good turn out of buyers at Communipaw, and some large droves were sold out in a very few minutes after the market opened. Wholesale butchers, and those who buy to sell again, picked them up lively, one butcher taking 55 head, 1,18s b, average at 17c., to dress 58 bp er cwt. The average quality was only fair, with a a few good lots and some scallawags. One small lot of the latter, dry cows of 5 cwt. sold at 14c., while the opposite, a lot of very fine Illinois spayed helfers were bringing 1830 184c. The Alexander and Cassell drove of 208 head, good 74 cwt. Illinois steers, went off early at 17a/18c., which 160 fine ones among them at 18c. on 8 cwt. 8 Per Cent First Mortgage Land Grant Sinking Fund Bonds

RAILWAY COMPANY.

Saint Paul and Chicago

PAYMENT OF PRINCIPAL GUARANTEED

BY THE

Farmers' Loan and Trust Company

OF THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.

Interest Payable Quarterly.

Free of United States Internal Revenue Tax.

FIRST.—During construction (2 years) it is assumed by The Parmers' Loan and Trust Company.

SECOND.—Thereafter by the proceeds of land sales from the Company's munifocent grant of lands, amounting to 904,000 acros. It is estimated that while the interest is being paid by the Trust Company, that the land sales will accumulate a fund, for the payment of the coupons and sinking fund, of over a million of dollars, and that the annual sales of land will amount to more than the interest on the pant, in consideration of which that corporation assumes ann agree to pay it at maturity.

The Railway extends from St. Panl, on the Misatssippi, to Winona, Latrosse, and the lows State line, a distance of 150 miles; at Winona it will connect with the Chicago and Sorth-Western extension from Madison, and form an air line to Chicago, and place St. Paul and Chicago within a deven hours of each other. Its local importance cannot well be over estimated, and it connects a large net work of roads centering at St. Paul with the system of Railways East and South. There is no incombrance beside the bonds on the road or lands. Saturcriptions have been promised, and are being made by all the towns along the line. Parties wishing these bonds as a desirable investment can apply to us in person, or by letter.
